- MC shared background history as to why we are creating a policy for parent engagement, DCP is updating their statement that it previously had. It is also recommended to have a parent compact.
- Jose T.: the way kids get into college is crazy, the path is confusing. DCP gets parents involve and know how to get to college. “If is up to me, I don’t know if he will be able to make it.”
- DCP hopes to do the following: change to commit (stronger word), org-wide (organization-wide)
- Conference(s) - attend and have access to parent/teacher conferences
- Add the word: form, or in parenthesis (Commitment to College)
- Include staff commitment
- Visual - bigger font, categorize it (like attendance), maybe a graphic organizer, condense some bullets, synthesize it more.
- Involve the student, advisory (seminar) and have kids help us collect it from
- A page created - google form or on site and acknowledge signature.
- Smith: how about during parent teacher conference
- Physical copy might be good, emails is good too. More important is to have that conversation. Mail out is not the best use.
- For next year: include in the summer packet.
- Make it a living document during meetings, conversations. Staff can use it in disciplinary or have teachers make it part of an assignment.
- Deficit language to take out - take out: uniforms get kick out of class. Last one: do whatever it takes to support my child - whatever it takes is too broad. (example, be college ready or attend post-secondary education, higher education).
